HAS TWICE BEEN AMERICAN

Stars and Stripes Have Flouted Over Lower California in 1847 and Again in 1853-54.

Lower California, owned by Mexico, was twice in the possession of the United States. During the Mexican war of 1847 the American forces occupied its principal points and declared it American, but it was returned after the war. The American flagstreaked it again in the raids of 1853-54, but it was again turned back to Mexico.

Lower California is a long, narrow peninsula that projects about 800 miles southeasterly from the southern border of California. Its width varies from 20 to over 100 miles. Its irregular coastline is over 100 miles long. It was discovered in 1533 by Cortez. It has served for a fabulously rich island said to be inhabited by Aztecs. About 25,000 Indians resided there at that time, and for over a century prevented white men from establishing a military colony on the peninsula. During one period it served as the lurking place of Sir Francis Drake and other freebooters. It was the scene of Spanish galleons on their annual voyages from Manila to Mexico, smugglers and pirates attracted by the huge school of whales visited it regularly in the last century.

STURDY AND SENSIBLE SCHOOL DRESS

Dressing the girl in her early teens for school ought to be a simple matter, easily disposed of—and it is with mothers who are gifted with good judgment coupled with the courage of their convictions. But the young person from thirteen to seventeen or eighteen is apt to be self-conscious and self-centered; she is not always willing to defer to the judgment of older heads than hers; and here is where difficulties confront the mothers. Schools that require a uniform make things easy; there is no room for comparisons where all are dressed alike, and dress does not distract the attention of the young people from their work.
There is another advantage in the uniform. It teaches the young girls that it is not so much what they wear as how they wear it, that counts; a lesson that will be valuable in after years when the matter of apparel becomes important to them. But where no uniform is required, it falls to the mother to teach her daughters to suit their dress to occasion and to value neatness above everything else.
Sturdy materials and fast colors are required for school clothes. They must be well made and it washable so much the better. The school dress for a young girl, shown above, will look well in either wool or cotton goods. It has a plaid skirt and plain middie blouse, with plaid belt and neck binding. It is as good a model for school wear as one could ask; of a character that is guaranteed not to take the young ladies' minds off the intricacies of "savage foot" "mechanics" or any of the "graphical."
"Resilient" and "rhythmic" occupy the school hours of the smaller girl and play absorbs the balance of her waking hours. She rejoices in middie or one-piece frocks that do not interfere with her freedom. A dress for her school days, shown in the picture, is made of dark colored wool cloth, with a collar and inset in the cuffs of lighter colored wool, or some strong color contrast, as red, with dark blue or dark gray. It is made with a straight panel at the front. The simplest, sort of pattern is applied with narrow waist at the top and bottom of the panel. Two narrow belts of the same material as the dress slip through cloth slides and are fastened with buckles at the front.

Blouses Increase in Importance

An excursion through the shops in search of new blouses is as intriguing as an expedition after wild flowers. Where there is so much variety and beauty to be found there is an equal amount of zest in making selections. The blouses through variety in styles, materials, in methods of decorating the new blouses and, for several reasons, their place in the wardrobe is increased in importance. One of these reasons is the "high cost of dressing." The suit blouse is not confined to tailored styles nowadays, but undertakes to fit a suit for many occasions; in the company of a handsome separate skirt, lovely blouses are able to face any occasion with assurance.
The overblouse and the smock style are the important new features in the season's showings. In the overblouse, two materials or two colors of one material are used to make the blouse—a crepe georgette over chiffon, or net or satin. In the smock style the blouse has a peplum and a girde, as shown in the figure at the right of the picture above. This particular model embodies several details of the mode in the flaring sleeves, the shape of the neck opening, the silhouette and the management of the embroidered decoration. It is made of georgette crepe and embroidered with silk.

Handkerchiefs Are Dainty.
No girl necessary of the toilet is dour as the feminine heart that dainty handkerchiefs. The dainty-colored ones, some in simple and out-line embroidery, are here. One may make for oneself the prettiest possible handkerchief. Roll the edge instead of turning it for a hem, for it should be very narrow. Then with pink or blue embroidery silk over sew it all around—that is "whip" it over the top of this little hem. Once around, roll it in the opposite direction, thus making a cross stitch.

FARM TERRACING IS VALUABLE PRACTICE

Pennsylvania Farmer Enthusiastic Over Benefits.

Great Advantages to Be Derived Are Little Understood in Greater Portion of Northern States—Prevents Soil Washing.

(Presented by the United States Department of Agriculture.)
The owner of a large farm in Pennsylvania, on which one of the first attempts at terracing in the North Atlantic states was undertaken last spring, is enthusiastic about the benefits of this work. He has asked that the drainage division of the Bureau of Public Roads, which supervises the project, aid in extending the terracing this fall.

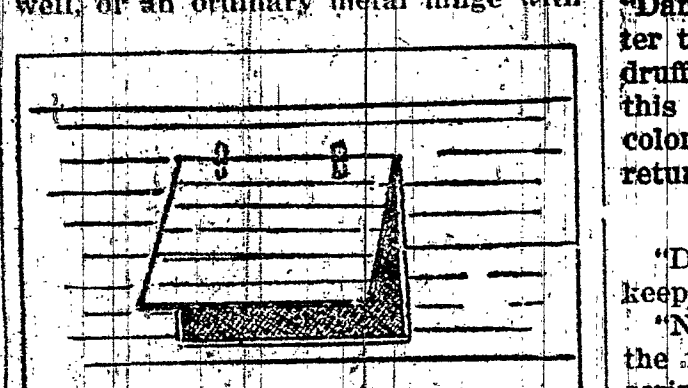

This sort of rural engineering is new in the region, and the low ridges at various levels on the sloping fields of this farm have occasioned the liveliest interest in the whole district. Terracing of various types has been practiced in parts of the South for a number of years, but in many sections of the North its great advantages are little understood. Consequently, the bureau is particularly interested in this demonstration of the permanent value of terracing in this Pennsylvania farm.

The Bureau of Public Roads points out that the washing away of earth by water costs the farmers of the United States approximately one million dollars every year. Soil losses from this cause occur in every state of the union and in almost every county of every state. Terracing is the most effective method of prevention.
There are two types of terraces—the bench terrace and the ridge terrace. A field of bench terraces resembles a series of benches or a flight of steps. Ridge terraces, as the name implies, are simply ridges of earth thrown up across the slopes or hill-sides. Ridge terraces are divided into two classes with respect to width and base, narrow base and the broad base. A broad base is the more recent type of the two, and as yet has been used in only a few localities. However, it is rapidly coming into general use and is taking the place of the narrow base because of its superiority for most, if not all, conditions. This is the type of the Pennsylvania farm. Its chief advantage lies in the fact that it can be readily crossed by large farm machinery, and therefore it does not interfere with the usual farm operations. The broad bankment of earth gives the terrace strength to withstand the pressure of water and prevents breaks due to seepage.

SWINGING DOOR VERY HANDY

Device Will Enable Farmer to Keep Hog Pens More Comfortable in Winter and Summer.

A door attached at the top so it will swing in and out will not only enable one to keep the pens warmer in winter and cooler in summer but will also prevent the hogs from breaking the door off, and does not require the cive that doors attached otherwise need, says a writer in Michigan Farmer. There are different methods of fastening. A criss-cross bell hinge works well, or an ordinary metal hinge with

Door Swings In and Out.
The pivot extends below door frame on lock or so. Still another method is to insert pins in the door and through the door frame about three inches from the top.

REPAIR SHOP QUITE USEFUL

Time and Money Saved When Tractor or Other Machinery Happens to Get Out of Order.

A shop that need not be equipped with expensive tools, but will be found almost indispensable when installed, is a demand of modern farming. Should a tractor or other farm machine implement need repair, both time and money can be saved if a repair shop is on the place.
A large drill, torque and hammer will make wheels and straighten and bend rods. Chisels, wrenches and a press drill are needed in this shop. Old files can be made into useful tools. The farm junk heap can be raided and will produce wonderful results by the outfit, and a trip to the blacksmith shop in town and vexatious delays can be avoided.

HEREFORD BREED OF CATTLE

Among Chief Breeds for Beef in This Country—Quality of Their Meat Is Excellent.

The Hereford breed of cattle is among the chief breeds in this country. They are believed to have been first imported into the United States by Henry Clay in 1817. They mature as early as the Shorthorns and are nearly as large. The quality of their meat is good and they possess excellent breeding qualities.

COWS HELP SOIL FERTILITY

In Addition to Milk, Butter and Beef, Animals Produce Much Valuable Manure.

Cows consume bulky feeds and produce considerable manure for the soil in addition to the milk, butter and beef they yield. Every farmer needs more and should provide pasture and feed for his cows when he has them.

WAS ALMOST DISCOURAGED

Constant Headache and Much Soreness and Pain Nearly Got the Best of This Harrisburg Lady, But Cardui Made Her Well and Strong.

Harrisburg, Ark.—Mrs. J. M. Neenan, living near here, states: "When I began working on me I suffered a great deal. I had so much soreness and pain in the lower part of my body I could hardly get up when I was down. I would have severe pains, all across my back, and my sides hurt me all the time. I would have headaches constantly, especially the back of my head and neck. I was almost discouraged with my condition when I thought of Cardui, and decided to see what it would do."

I saw an improvement at once after the first bottle. I kept it up and the result was wonderful. I took altogether four bottles. I grew stronger, better appetite, less pain until I was well. I think Cardui is a God-send to suffering women, and I certainly can praise it, and do so."

For more than 40 years Cardui has been in general use and in that time thousands have written to tell us how it helped them back to health and strength.

Thousands Have Kidney Trouble and Never Suspect It

Applicants for Insurance Often Rejected.

Judging from reports from druggists who are constantly in direct touch with the public, there is one preparation that has been very successful in overcoming these complaints. The mild and healing influence of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is soon realized. It attacks the highest for its remarkable record of success.

An examining physician for one of the prominent Life Insurance Companies, in an interview on the subject, made the following statement: "One reason why so many applicants for insurance are rejected is because kidney trouble is so common to the American people, and the large majority of those whose applications are declined do not even suspect that they have the disease. It is on mile in all drug stores in bottles of two sizes, medium and large."

However, if you wish first to test this great preparation, send ten cents to Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., for a sample bottle. When writing be sure and mention this paper.—Adv.

NEW YORK BARS BILLBOARDS

Edict Banishes Blatancies on Landscapes—To Be Allowed Only Beside Business Buildings.

Unightly signs and billboards must not deface Father Knickerbocker's fair real estate landscape.
This is the latest edict of the zoning committee. Secretary Swan enforced that the law would be enforced forthwith, whoever might be the offender.
"The city's determination to enforce this provision of the zoning resolution has been demonstrated in several instances by the revocation of permits mistakenly issued for the erection of billboards in residence districts and by the institution of suits to bring about the removal of billboards where the owners have not complied with removal orders," said he. "To bring about effective enforcement property owners who have suffered from an invasion should immediately place the matter before the superintendent of buildings on their borough."

"Instead of merely regulating the height, size and construction of signs, it frankly recognizes the fact that there is no such thing as a billboard respectable enough to rub elbows with churches, schools and private homes. When hereafter erected the billboard must go where it will cause a minimum harm—alongside business buildings and industrial establishments. Those existing before the law was passed are allowed to continue. Commercial advertising can in no sense be deemed accessory to any of the uses specifically permitted in residential districts."

WOULD SET OUT NUT TREES

Idea of New York Man for Practical and Beautiful Adornment of the Highways.

A correspondent writing to the editor of a New York paper suggests a thought that has probably occurred to very few persons interested in the adornment of American highways with trees, but that may be the forerunner of a new idea in such decoration, remarks the Christian Science Monitor. His suggestion, in brief, looks to the planting of productive as well as simply ornamental trees, preferably nut trees, because of the fact that nut trees have been cultivated for generations, are more or less spalled children, requiring continued cultivation if they are to be happy. Such planting, he says, would combine the Greek idea of utility and beauty; yet his own experience with fruit trees on the border of a private estate suggests a difficulty for the trees were ruined by the needless way in which a miscellaneous public gathered the fruit. Nuts were perhaps less tempting than apples, and there is, of course, the fact that the public once it individually realized that beautifying the common highway was one important function of the trees, would be more careful in its treatment of them. Meantime, the setting out of any trees at all is an important step in the right direction.

Advantage in Owning Home.

Aside from the manifest advantage of owning a house when houses are at a premium, the family which owns its own home strikes roots deeper into the soil than do those who move from one part of the city to another as convenient dictates. Their children go to the same school and the same Sunday school year after year. Teachers and friends have time to grow interested in them and to make plans for their improvement or pleasure. The heads of the family take their duties as citizens seriously, because bad government reacts on them directly in the form of increased taxes which they see and feel. Of course, the rentpayer pays taxes indirectly, but so many other elements complicate the rate of rentals that he hardly thinks of taxation as one of them. The home owner, too, takes a greater interest in local improvements, because he expects to stay in the neighborhood long enough to reap the benefit of them. Home owning involves responsibilities, but the man who faces responsibilities is usually a stronger man, a better householder and a better citizen than the man who dodges them.

Beautifying the Back Yard.

Those who have sufficient ground in the rear of their city or country houses in which to plant trees, or who are planning to plant trees in ground on which they plan to build, will do well to consider the usefulness of trees that are to occupy the space before deciding just what they will plant.

Not only are apple trees, cherry and peach trees ornamental in their shape and their foliage, but they vary the year around. They are not only as decorative as the purely flowering shrubs, but they are much more lovely than the average shrub or tree in blossom time.

Why He Was Interested.

"My uncle is very fond of the words of Aristotle Ward."
"Likes that sort of humor, eh?"
"He doesn't know it's humor. Takes a serious interest. Thinks it a fine example of amplified spelling."

Well, Why?

Why is it that the man who has his picture taken standing beside a vase of flowers set on a table covered with a lace doily is always the man who is reported to the police and the newspapers by his wife as among those missing?

CITY ECHOES.

NOTICE OF ANNUAL MEETING.
Hancock County Chapter American Red Cross Association.

All members of the Red Cross Association, residents of Hancock county, are hereby notified that the annual meeting of Hancock County Chapter will be held at the Court House at 7:30 o'clock, p. m., Tuesday, December 16, 1919.

The purpose of said meeting is to elect and install officers and executive committee to serve during the ensuing year.

JOHN OSOINACH, Chairman.

Manager E. J. Erwin will issue new telephone directories Monday.

Mayor and Mrs. R. W. Webb spent yesterday in New Orleans, combining business with pleasure.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Tarut are here from Bogalusa, La., visiting the former's mother, Mrs. E. Tarut, and family.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest J. Leonard are spending the week-end at their beach home, which property is undergoing extensive remodeling and renovation.

Mrs. J. Desimone and Misses Jaquet and Camille Desimone, of New Orleans, visited Miss Isabel Desimone at the home of Mrs. A. Beuchel, in Carroll Avenue, Sunday.

Mrs. Thos. B. Clifford was a welcome visitor here Thursday and was the guest of Mrs. R. de Montle. Mrs. Clifford came out to attend a meeting of the local Eastern Star organization, of which she is a prominent and active member.

Mrs. C. V. Blaise, local representative for the Western Union Co., has returned home from Jackson, Miss., where she attended the convention of the W. U. managers for the local district. The convention was largely attended and proved a most profitable one.

Mr. R. H. Prados, of New Orleans, has leased the dwelling in Carroll avenue, formerly occupied by Mr. George J. Muller and family, and will arrive here with his family Monday.

Thomas Quintini was taken to New Orleans Saturday and at an early hour Sunday morning underwent an operation for appendicitis. The Echo is glad to learn the operation was a success and that the patient is on the high road to recovery.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph P. Crasto and family are among the late arrivals in Bay St. Louis and are warmly welcomed as new residents. Mr. Crasto has just purchased (from C. Bordages, Sr.) an attractive dwelling in Union street.

The Hancock County Bank has a new advertisement in this week's Echo. The figures are big and interesting and show the bank's success and prosperity. These figures speak well for the bank and Bay St. Louis.

For a holiday present what would be a better or more sensible gift than a nice pair of shoes? The Boston Shoe Store has an excellent line of shoes of all grades. There are none better than the famous Walk-Over Shoes, for men and women. See advertisement elsewhere in this issue of The Echo.

Patrons of the A. & G. Theatre have been enjoying the many interesting pictures presented of late, an unusually good program for the fall business season. It is interesting to note that the management signed this week for quite a number of the extra big picture features, showing of which will shortly begin.

Mrs. J. P. McGinn arrived home Sunday morning from Washington, D. C., where she has been visiting her daughter, Miss Rosetta McGinn, and prior to that spending a while with her daughter, Mrs. R. W. Taylor, at Sioux City, Iowa, and a while at Baltimore. Mrs. McGinn was absent several months and had a most interesting trip and visit.

It is hardly necessary to call attention to the big advertisement in this issue of The Merchants Bank concerning the Christmas Savings Clubs. This is one of the most popular features of savings and should appeal to every man, woman and child. The Merchants Bank this week said out many thousands of dollars to members of the 1919 club. Did you get a Christmas Club check? The 1920 Club is now open. Join at once.

The Red Cross Bulletin, the official journal for the Gulf Division of the Red Cross, in its current issue publishes a strikingly good picture of Mr. Henry W. Osolinach, of this city, as Chairman of the Third Red Cross Roll Call, and comments on the splendid work he did in the recent drive, and compliments Hancock County in going "over the top" as the first county in Mississippi. The praise in both cases is merited.

Mr. Chris Dorn, residing south of Ansley, lost his dwelling at that place Monday night and he and his two children had a narrow escape of being cremated. The bottom of the heater dropped out during the night and set the floor on fire. Mr. Dorn was painfully burned in trying to save the household effects, much of which were lost. The house was well built and substantially constructed; no insurance, and the loss in keenly felt by the owner.

"What's a Combination Last?"

Feet vary as much as people. To furnish every one his and her fit, Walk-Over Shoes are made on countless models. For your fit, you may require only our combination last. That's merely a shoe two widths narrower at back than front. If your shoes don't fit right, come in and try this one. For looks it's a humdinger and for comfort it's perfect.
